

---

Table of Contents

- no material adverse change resulting from supply disruptions, reduced demand for electricity or electrical grid or interconnection disruption or curtailment;
- no material adverse changes in market, regulatory and overall economic conditions; and
- no material adverse changes in the existing regulatory framework, such as regulations relating to net metering or third-party ownership of electrical generation.

116